SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

The state highway department has installed a huge warning sign at the top of Donner grade, instructing motorists of the steep grades and curves being approached. We can only hope the sign will be heeded and further casualties on the grade avoided. At least the highway department is doing its best to eliminate the hazards of driving and it's now up to the motorists to make the job complete by using more caution.

With the approach of the fall season we are struck by the thought of our garbage and sewer disposal question. It's too late now to do much about the summer season and keeping our streets and alleys presentable for our visitors and the more serious difficulty of disposal during the snowy months offers the current problem. Usually at least once a year the sanitary board makes a promise of doing something to correct the situation, but evidently even the promise is going begging this year. Last year was a "light" winter and the problem did not manifest itself, but what the future months may hold is a question which should cause some concern and efforts should be made to avoid a condition which we had two years ago.

Truckee may have a booth at the county fair next month. It may also enjoy participation in the San Francisco exposition on Truckee Day later in the year and it will surely be well represented at Nevada County Day at the state fair on September 9. These three events promise to give this worthy section some worthwhile advertising and we sincerely hope that the plans for the occasions now being formulated will be carried to successful conclusions. We can always do with good advertising for our community.

BENEFIT FOOD SALE NETS NICE SUM FOR WYETHIA MEMBERS

Many County Residents Have Registrations To Election Vote Cancelled

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31— 1,284 residents of Nevada County have suffered cancellation of their voting registrations because of failure to vote in either the primary or general election of 1938, according to word received here from County Clerk R. N. McCormack.

In 1938 the great register for the county showed a registration of 11,107. Today there are only 8,999. Besides failure to vote, registrations are cancelled by removal of the resident from the county or even from one precinct to another, by death, by conviction of a crime, by commitment to mental hospital or by change of name other than by marriage.

Warning all citizens that the last date for registration is September 28, McCormack announced that his office would be open through that date for all who wished to register and that some 15 deputies had been placed about the county for the convenience of those who might not be able to call at the court house.

The CCCers were Archie Forillo, Jimmie Hewston, Joseph Frangipane, Anthony Zalesky, Harry Goldbery, Anthony Maggio and Ernest Papio, all of whose homes are in The Bronx. Frank Krevoit, Frederick Duda and John Neurohn also were there but gave their port of call a "from Jersey."

OLD-TIME DANCE AT MEEKS BAY HAS BIG ATTENDANCE

More than 100 couples from Truckee and all points on Lake Tahoe Tuesday night attended the H & W Philanthropic Club's dance at Meeks Bay where old time dances were revived and enjoyed by the group which filled the hall. Vic Bell and his orchestra provided the music and, while unaccustomed to playing the older tunes, did remarkably well.

The affair was arranged under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heller and an able committee. William Englehart, Sr., called several of the dances.

The affair netted a nice profit which will be used toward financing the proposed new club house for the busy community.

Officer Meets Former School Teacher In Attempting Warning

Officer A. C. Barrick was patroling Donner grade last week end without a thought of grammar school days or his former home in Colorado when he noticed a car in front of him with the driver evidently applying brakes more than necessary on that stretch of road. The obliging officer stopped to speak to the occupant to assure her that the road was not steep at that point when he was surprised to see his eighth grade teacher from Colorado at the wheel.

Miss Erma Seiss, who was accompanied by Miss Corvan, also of Grand Junction, Colorado, and the former pupil had an opportunity to recall school days when the visitors here were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barrick following the chance meeting.

HONEST FISHERMAN DENIES REPORT HE LANDED BIG TROUT

An honest fisherman has been discovered.

We have a letter from Fred D. Weidman, M. D., of Llanerch, Pennsylvania, denying a recent story to the effect he had caught a five pound trout near Truckee.

The credit for this feat goes to Fred Green of San Francisco, a close friend and companion of the eastern doctor, the note said. In neither story was it related where the fish was caught, that part remaining a secret between the two nimrods.

In writing, Dr. Weidman protested that because of the jealousy between fishermen he wished it it be known that Green and not he caught the fish.

"I assure you that I do this in the interest of my very good friend Fred Green, and if for nothing else, the sake of the truth," the doctor wrote.

Settlement Of CIO Dispute Is Reached Here

Boys Removed From Heavy Construction Work At Dam

TELEGRAMS RECEIVED

Local Unionists Deny Plans For Strike As Was Reported

Complete and peaceful settlement of the controversy last week when local Congress of Industrial Organization members protested the action of the Federal reclamation bureau in permitting CCC boys to do heavy construction work at the nearly completed Boca Dam, according to John Gilbreath, CIO secretary here.

Telegrams from Secretray of Interior Harold Ickes and other officials indicated, Gilbreath said, that it was never intended that the CCC boys do the work designated as heavy construction but that their duties would include landscaping and general cleaning up of the project.

This, Gilbreath said, meets with the unanimous approval of his organization and an agreement with C. S. Hale, resident engineer for the bureau of reclamation, has been reached. The CCC boys were removed from heavy construction tasks and where necessary local men are employed.

It was also agreed between the two groups, Gilbreath said, that the bureau could employ special workers for technical jobs outside the local union without causing any dissatisfaction from the CIO. As a result of the agreement, the protest picket line was immediately removed and work was resumed at the dam.

No Strike Proposed

A report of a pending strike on the Union Paving company's project near the state line on Highway 40 was emphatically denied by Gilbreath, who said the local union had never proposed a strike or picket line in protests against the removal of company equipment from the job.

Sheriff Carl Tobiassen and a deputy were here Tuesday morning when they said they received word that trouble was brewing at the camp but their visit was as uneventful as it was unexpected, according to reports here.

The equipment used on the road was removed by trucks sent from San Francisco with local men assisting in the removal, Gilbreath declared.

Newspaper accounts of threatened violence were branded by local union officials as false and misleading.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Congress has gone home now, bag and baggage, so those who make a career of speculating on matters political are turning their eyes away from Washington to find subjects for discussion. But all the discussion is still influenced by what happened in the national capital before the boys packed up and left.

One question looms large in the minds fo both the public and political commentators: How substantially will Congressional action last session help business recovery?

Critics of industry got in the first lick by claiming that Congress has "accepted industry's challenge" by making what legislative changes and reforms it did accomplish, and that now responsibility for complete and hasty recovery rests squarely on the shoulders of business.

If this argument was supposed to make an impression, it missed fire rather badly. It was too easy to see the flaw in the argument that, after ten years of experimentation and tinkering with the economic machinery of the country on the part of the politicians, industry should take heart the moment that signs of a change for the better made thir appearance. Business knows, from experience painfully gained, that a lot remains to be done to put things back in good running order. Congress has a lot more constructive work ahead of it next session if it really wants to be helpful.

Meantime, however, all indications are that business management is moving ahead to the best of its ability, grateful for the encouragement that the Senators and Representatives have afforded by their actions and attitudes. Among the things that are most heartening to industry and that came out of this year's Washington legislative mill, the defeat of the spending bill, the tax revisions incorporated in the Revenue Act of 1939 and social security reforms may be listed as outstanding.

The collapse of the vast omnibus spend-lend "white rabbit" was cheering to business because it served as an indictaion that Congress no longer intends to run down the road with every sepnding program that is suggested. Business, which bears so large a part of the nation's tax burden hopes fervently that this particular action by Congress is the herald of a real economy drive at the following session.

The tax revisions made this year were not all that business had hoped but they were a step in the right direction. And the amendments to social security requirements followed fairly closely suggestions made by business long before the original bill was drafted, seemingly indicating that, in matters which touch business so closely, the lawmakers might save many unfortunate errors if they listened to businessmen's advice a little more often.

It is, of course, evident to all unbiased observers that the failure of Congress to amend the Wagner Labor Relations Act, in spite of overwhelming public opinion favoring such changes, was a blow both to the democratic process and to industrial prosperity. To be sure, a committee has been appointed to investigate the Board itself, but this investigation while important, does not remove the drawbacks to employment involved in the defects of the Wagner Act itself.

When the significance of the steps taken in Washington last session are really thus placed clearly in perspective, it is easy to see how absurd are the claims of those who are screaming a challenge to business, ordering it to bring about recovery in the five months between Congressional sessions.

What confuses the spectators is this: Business is expected to do something the challengers haven't been able to do in seven years.

COINCIDENCE NOTE: The printed volume of the 1940 Federal budget weighs four pounds, seven ounces

The volume represents what the administration is asking for to run the government for a year. The printed volume of the Federal tax laws which represents what the government collects to run the government for a year weighs only three pounds one ounce.

Coincidentally, that is just about the ratio between the amount of money collected and the amount spent.

THE DICTATORS GANG UP

London is "dazed"! Paris is "astounded"! Tokio is "shocked"! Budapest is startled"! So ran the headlines last week when the "arch enemies," Stalin and Hitler, signed a pact to virtually divide Eastern Europe between them.

From Our vantage point across the world from the scene, the news doesn't seem so amazing. Hitler and Stalin have much in common. The hammer and sickle banner and the swastika are symbols, both, of dictatorship. Under each, unions are crushed and labor left voiceless, business is victimized, private property rights are flouted and the "emancipated masses" do as they are told—or are lined up and shot. Why such bewilderment, when two such despots join hands to master and crush half a continent? Stalin, to be sure, betrayed the Russian people, whom he has taught to hate Nazism—but he betrayed them before with Utopian promises. Hitler betrayed his own allies of the anti-Comintern pact. Both betrayed the the deluded men they sent to kill one another in Spain's Communist - Fascist civil war. England and France were betrayed by Stalin even as he craftily talked with them about a military alliance. Yet why the surprise? Betrayal, the stab in the back, are hallmarks of the ruthless ambition that leads to dictatorship.

In that news is a needed lesson for the propoganda-swayed minority in this country who have taken foreign "isms" seriously. The masks have been ripped off. Nazism and Communism stand revealed alike as allies—allies in their eternal enmity to liberty and justice. America feels no particular amazement over that Nazi - Communist rapprochment. But there is loathing and disgust in the hearts of all honorable men who hold their pledged word sacred in the hearts of all who are blessed with the rights and the dignity of American citizenship—of all who are truly freemen.

ANOTHER HAT IN THE RING

Another hat was tossed into the political ring the other day when Speaker Bankhead of Alabama indicated he'd accept the Democratic presidential nomination—if Alabama wants him to. So many hats have now been flung into the ring, only one thing seems fairly certain: A dark horse will come prancing along and trample those hats beyond hope of repair.

California Special x Election News x

(edited by Douglas Barrett)

The Commonwealth Club of California announced this week that an impartial analysis of the $30-Every-Thursday Plan is being made by a division or Section of the club expressly set up for this purpose. Included are both proponents and opponents of the measure.

Meetings of the group are being held semi-weekly at San Francisco to hear sepakers on both sides. These meetings will continue until about September 21, at which time the section will report to the club and shortly thereafter there will a vote taken of the 4,000 members of the club.

The Commonwealth Club, headed by former Gov. C. C. Young, is not to be confused with the Commonwealth-Progressive Federation, headed by Robert Noble of Los Angeles, which is out in favor of the plan which originated with its young chairman as a $25-Every-Monday plan.

It is estimated by county clerks of California that at least 20 per cent of those who were registered voters last November will not be able to cast their ballot when they go to the polls on November 7 this year. And the county clerks are the keepers of the great registers, so they know whereof they are speaking.

The reason, it seems, is that 20 per cent of the registered voters failed to vote in either the August primary or the general election of 1938 and so voided their registration. Under the law, the county clerk had no other choice but to cancel their registration after notifying them that he has done so and instructing them as to the method of re-registering.

Legal registration is now less than three million, whereas in 1938 it was 3,611,416,

Registration is open throughout the year, except the 39 days immediately preceding an election. Last date for registration for the special election called by Governor Olson for November 7 will be September 28.

MONUMENT OF A BLACK KING

THIS magnificent Citadel is the work of a man who could neither read nor write yet was possessed of an amazing spirit of enterprise and a tremendous driving power—Henri Christophe, an ex-slave who became the only king to rule in the New World—the famous Black King of Haiti.

The Citadel of La Ferriere is a colossal fortress larger than the Tower of London, built on top of a jungle-covered mountain 3,000 feet high—near Cap Haitien on the route of the weekly 18-Day Cruises to the Caribbean. Its walls, built around a central parade ground, are from 20 to 40 feet thick and the highest is 130 feet—to which height the sheer drop of the mountainsides adds another 2,000 feet. From "prow" to "stern" it is 270 feet long. It is large enough to accommodate 10,000 soldiers and enough food and water to last a fortnight. To provide sufficient water, the wall tops are corrugated in deep ridges to catch all the rain which is then conducted to great cisterns buried deep in the fortress.

Every atom of lime and brick used in the structure had to be carried through the jungle to the top of the mountain on the heads of slaves—from other hills a mile or two distant. They also dragged the heavy bronze cannons—365 in all—up to the gun chambers. More than ten years were consumed in the building of the Fortress and although thousands upon thousands of soldiers and peasants worked on it, the huge architectural structure is so symmetrical, the lines so harmonious, that it would seem to be the creation of but a single individual—and for this reason it ranks with the Seven Wonders of the World.

FIVE HOLDOVER FIRES KEEP FOREST SERVICE MEN BUSY FOR WEEK

TAHOE CITY, Aug. 31—Five holdover lightening fires caused by the storms of last week have kept the Forest Service crews in the Tahoe district busy.

Most serious was a fire which broke out Saturday afternoon about 12:30 between Ward and Blackwood creeks on an inaccessible ridge about two miles from the lakeshore highway near Timberland. Although Rangers Charles Arment and H. I. Snider and a crew of forty CCC boys from Rubicon Camp had the fire under control by 3:30 with a fire line completely around it, it is anticipated that it will require about a week to burn itself out. An area of about an acre was burned over and 26 spot fires extinguished shortly after "Waddles" Maher, Martis Peak lookout, had discovered it. It was impossible to reach with fire apparatus as there are no roads or trails in that region nor any water nearby. This blaze was a "duff" fire in pine needles and forest debris of any years standing, with old "punk" logs increasing the hazard Guards will encirle the fire until the danger is past.

On Wednesday last at Twin Peaks a fire was discovered in a huge red fir, 7 feet in diameter, which was put out in a hurry.

On Thursday, up Blackwood creek near the Rubicon road, another holdover fire was discovered in the huge trees of the region.

Other small fires at Deer Park and State Camp kept the Forest Service crews on the go all week.

Ranger Arment spoke highly of the work of the CCC boys, stating that they were very hard working fire fighters and a big help to the Forest Service.—aba.

According to reports, the man was seen going about scantily dressed and acting in a most peculiar manner. A thorough search of the vicinity failed to reveal any trace of him.—es.

Tahoe Heros Lauded By Parents of Rescued Woman

TAHOE CITY, Aug. 31— Tahoe's three heros who saved from almost certain death five occupants of a car which catapulted into the rushing torrents of the Truckee river near the concrete bridge last Thursday night were rewarded for the task which they so courageously performed as an ordinary act of duty. Patrolman Gene Walker, who, with his nephew, Bud Walker, and Albert Henry, Jr., performed the almost impossible feat were satisfied that they had been able to render such a service but looked for no other reward than satisfaction. The father and mother of Mrs. Ray Griffis, who, although hurt seriously and in great pain, was carried up the ladder on Henry's back visited at Tahoe Sunday to view the scene of the accident and met the men who saved the lives of her daughter's party. While here they thanked the men for the rescue and left a substatial reward for them.

All members of the ill-fated party are recuperating in Reno.—es.

Unlimited Visibility

THERE are perhaps few reports more welcome to an aviator than that of "unlimited visibility," with its assurance of a clear atmosphere, unobstructed ceiling, smooth passage. Not alone to an aviator but to others also, is the phrase significant, hinting something deeper than the mere technical implications. For instance, in whatever walk of life one may find himself, what peace and joy would come from an assurance of definite, continuous progress with no obstructions or reversals!

Such assurance is by no means impossible of achievement. If one were to depend simply upon mortal theories and panaceas for guidance and inspiration, he might sometimes enjoy temporary success, but ultimately he would experience disappointment and frustration. Yet in turning to the truth, founded on the Scriptures, he would have the sure basis for his hope, and realize progress and well-being. Throughout religious history, the consciousness of unlimited good has been the experience of many devout and spiritually-minded men and women. Christ Jesus possessed, in the highest degree, true spiritual vision, which enabled him to overrule every untoward condition presented to him.

John, in the bleak setting of Patmos, was so imbued with spiritual light that he received a glorious vision of "a new heaven and a new earth" (Revelation 21:1). . . .

The term "visible" is defined, in part, as "perceivable by the eye;" and also as "mentally perceptible." When one grasps in some measure the great facts of spiritual being which are not cognized by physical sight, the possibilities of spiritual vision are seen to be unlimited and unimpeded by material, finite conditions and would-be obstructions. In the words of Paul (II Corinthians 4:18), one learns to "look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal." These eternal verities, discernible to spiritual sense, include illimitable goodness, affluence, and harmony.

Spiritual man is fetterless, unfallen, reflecting infinite Mind, God, his origin. Man's possibilities for expressing good and blessedness are therefore as unrestricted and inexhaustible as his source. In human experience, the arguments that would make for mistiness or obscureness—fear, doubt, discouragement, ignorance, worldliness, sin—are the outcome of the belief that man has a mortal existence separate from God. But Christian Science reveals man as the individual expression of divine Mind, incapable of knowing aught but perfection, since Mind is perfect. All attributes of God, including discernment, wisdom, and ability, are expressed by man.

Freedom from a false sense of responsibility and the depressing fear of failure are won as one realizes man's eternal oneness with his heavenly Father. What serenity comes from the recognition that man, as God's idea or reflection, is dependent only on Mind for all capability and sagacity, and that this reflection is immutable, eternal, and irreversible! Likewise, to man, the flawless manifestation of Life, superstitious beliefs regarding sickness, age, accident, are unknown. However aggressive, terrifying, or stubborn the appearance of discord may seem to material sense, spiritual harmony alone is supreme and real. Apprehending this fact importunately and consistently, one can triumph over false beliefs and prove his God-given dominion.

"God's gifts put man's best dreams to shame," a well-loved poet once wrote, as perhaps a gentle, though forceful rebuke to the human tendency to outline what one might consider best and most desirable for his welfare. In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 591) Mrs. Eddy defines Mind, in part, as "Deity, which outlines but is not outlined." . . . Love has established all good, and maintains His idea, man, in harmony, completeness, perfection, and joy. This truth, understood and applied, acts as law in one's human experience, supplying whatever the need may be—harmonious relationships, home, food, clothing, employment.

Progress, in its highest sense, means working with God, and is evidenced in one's intent and conduct rather than in merely material enrichment. But right reward necessarily follows righteous endeavor, and is inseparable from it. In these inspiring words Mrs. Eddy has assured us of ever-present divine help (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 113): "Divine Love is our hope, strength, and shield. We have nothing to fear when Love is at the helm of thought, but everything to enjoy on earth and in heaven."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Inadequate Wiring

Small electric wires in homes are causing our customers to lose many dollars

The Utility District has spent many hundreds of dollars to bring the proper voltage to your building. Beyond the meter is where the loss occurs.

The District cannot deliver the proper quality of electricity to your lamps or appliances if your wiring is inadequate (too small or in poor condition).

Your lamps will not burn as brightly as they should; your iron, toaster or cooker will not heat as fast as they should, and your refrigerator, radio or washing machine will not operate as efficiently if your wiring is too small. BUT your meter will keep running just the same.

Call the electric contractor in and have him check your wiring and give you an estimate on bringing it up to standard. Have him put in a few extra convenient outlets while he is there.

Politically Speaking

by JOHN W. DUNLAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31 —(UP)— The enigma of California politics might just as well be Robert Kenny, the ex-newspaperman who studied law, became a judge and finally ended up a top heavy choice for senator from Los Angeles county.

A lot of people are wondering why Senator Kenny turned down an attractive appointment as appellate judge in Southern California and whether it means a growing rift with Governor Olson.

There is plenty of substantiation that he wanted a job on the bench although his choice naturally would have been the Supreme Court. When Olson had his first vacancy to pick he handed it to Senator Jesse Carter of Redding, another Democratic wheel horse who would have been ineligible by residence to take the appellate judgeship.

Since there was a contest over the right of senators to accept the judicial posts, Kenny said he would abide by the test case on Carter's appointment, which ultimately ended favorably for the senator.

In the meantime, however, a second opening developed on the supreme court bench. Within a few hours after the Carter decision, Olson "forgot" Mr. Kenny and chose his director of finance, Phil Gibson. And without any stalling, Kenny suddenly turned down his judgeship, declaring his private practice needed caring for, an excuse which somehow didn't quite fit the genial state senator.

From a legal standpoint, Kenny probably has better qualifications for the Supreme Court than either Carter or Gibson, since he served with distinction on the Los Angeles superior court bench. Capable, affable and politically shrewd, Kenny may choose to wait for a third Supreme Court post before openly breaking with Olson.

Kenny's knowledge of newspapering—he was formerly a United Press bureau manager in Los Angeles—is one of his most valuable political assets. He is not only able to express himself clearly and tersely, he knows how to keep himself in a favorable light in the press.

Another unexplained angle involving Kenny is his "front" for the Southern California group opposing the $30 Thursday pension plan. Just as the Ham 'n Eggs opponents wisely chose former State Attorney U. S. Webb to head its Northern California campaign, so they secured Kenny in the South.

During and after the legislature however, Kenny said he would be campaign manager for Lt. Gov. Ellis E. Patterson, who aspires to be U. S Senator to succeed Hiram Johnson And Pattreson openly avows the Ham and Egg cause in an effort to corral the bloc of somewhere around a million votes claimed by the pension group.

Kenny is placed in the peculiar position of supporting a man plugging for "Ham and Eggs" and opposing the same cause. Obviously he can't do both and a drift away from Patterson is the likely answer.

For that matter, if it wasn't for Patterson, Kenny himself would be in the race for Senator.

Speaking for Patterson, he could hardly be jubilant over the recent judicial appointments of the governor During the legislature, Patterson made an unofficial deal for campaign managers among his Democratic colleagues. Kenny was going to handle Southern California, Senator Carter the Northern California section and Senators Harry Westover of Orange county and Andrew Pierovich of Amador county the work in their sections

Westover and Pierovich went to the superior bench a la Olson, Carter is out of the question if the qualifications committee okehs his appointment, and Kenny is on the fence.

All of which raises the same old question of what the Democrats are going to do in the senate for the special relief session of the legislature coming up. Previously outvoted by the Republicans, the Bourbons—and Olson—will be sadly up against it unless Democrats are elected to replace the judges.

PARTY LEADERS BID FOR 1940 CONCLAVES TO BE HELD IN STATE

Speaker of the Assembly Paul Peek chairman of the Democratic state central committee, has made overtures this week leading to the bringing of the Democratic national convention to California.

Peek said that several national committee members favor holding the convention in this state.

In the mean time, a drive instituted by State President Virgil Chapman of the Young Republicans of California to secure the national GOP convention in the Golden State has received favorable reaction by other party leaders. Nevada Republicans under Young Republican President George Smith, Jr., are supporting California in her bid for the national convention—db..

POINTS TO WOMEN'S STAKE IN DEMOCRACY

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31—(IPS)—The freedom of women is indissolubly linked with human liberty in general and its future well-being depends on the preservation of American democracy, Federal Judge Florence E. Allen emphasized in an address before the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women held here recently.

"The business woman of tomorrow in America will have, if our democratic system is maintained, advantages and instruments which the business woman of yesterday never had," she said. "If our democracy is destroyed she will lose those advantages and instruments just as the women under the despotism of Europe have lost the gains of a century

"All the priceless opportunities—the right to be educated, to speak in public, to organize with other women and men, to vote, to hold public office and to work in one's own chosen calling—the business woman of today takes for granted, and the business woman of tomorrow will enjoy as long as the American system prevails.

"The triumph of the woman movement is the great extension of freedom witnessed in our time," she added. "It was made possible by the spirit of American democracy. When that spirit dies, the woman movement also dies, and with it all rights of men and women so dearly won."

DEMOCRATIC SPLIT SEEN IN '40 BY OBSERVER AFTER ROOSEVELT'S PITTSBURGH MESSAGE; WAR STRATEGY IS HINTED BY PRESIDENT

by FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Political observers are hailing the recent letter of the President to the meeting of the young Democrat clubs in session at Pittsburgh as presaging a split in the national organization in 1940. It is known definitely that the Jeffersonian Democrats under the leadership of men like Vice President Garner and Senators Tydings, Clark and Harrison have already set about in the work of returning the Democratic ship to its old fashioned moorings. The President in his letter to the young Democrats declared that the party could not win next year if it nominated a conservative or "lip-service" candidate on a "straddlebug" platform. He added that personally he would have no part in such an unfortunate suicide of the Democratic organization but expressed the hope that the National Convention would see to it that a liberal is nominated in 1940.

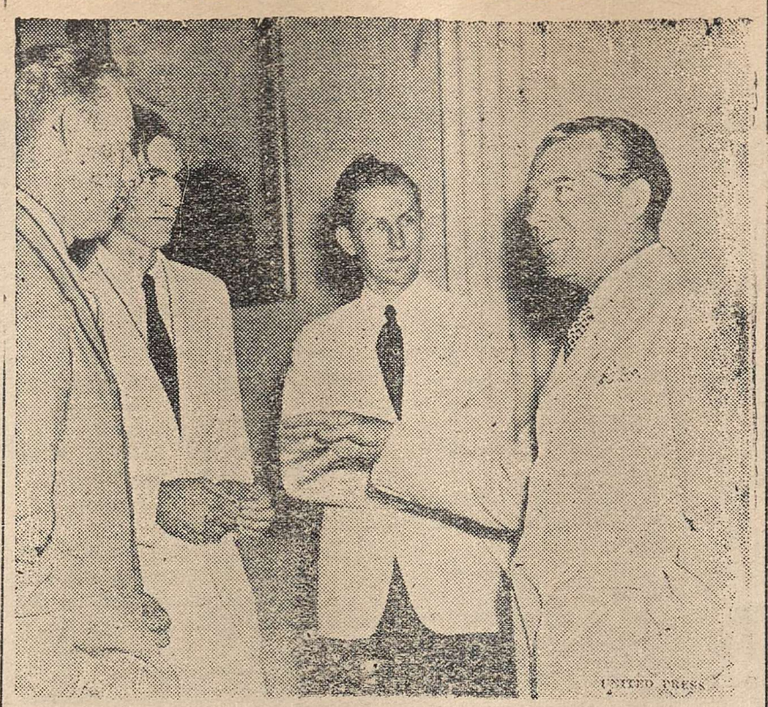
Of course if the old timers proceed in their efforts to nominate a conservative or semi-conservative candidate and Mr. Roosevelt persists in his attempts to nominate a 100% New Dealer there will be a split in the Democratic Party. By reading between the lines of Mr. Roosevelt's letter next year, it can be seen that he does not expect any such split and the reason he does not expect it is that he believes that the party will take his warning and nominate a New Deal candidate in 1940.

In his note to the Pittsburgh meeting it may be stated that the President is employing some of the strategy he envisions for the situation in Europe. The President believes that war can be prevented in Europe by serving notice on Hitler and Mussolini in advance that in case war comes the United States will be found lined up with Great Britain and France. He is of the opinion that in case the United States takes such action the dictators will back down and become peaceable On the political field the President evidently believes that a similar warning to the old fashioned Democratic leaders that they will find the New Deal against them, if they start anything, will be sufficient to make them quiescent and amenable in the future

This strategy is fine if it works. But if Hitler and Mussolini should decide that they had better fight anyhow while they still have a chance to accomplish something, that they can't go on as they are, then the New Deal neutrality policy can easily pitch us into the center of a first class world war. In the political arena, if the Jeffersonian leaders, with their eyes on 1944, should decide it would be better for them to fight and bring down the house in 1940 rather than to go on as they are going now, then the New Deal might find itself wth a first class party war on hand. It all depends on whether or not the advance warning system will work, and that in turn depends on how tired the person being warned is of the present state of affairs.

We are undoubtedly in for some interesting political times from now on until November 1940. Get yourself a ringside seat and a program of all the coming events—so far as they can be programmed.

POLAND NOT SURPRISED AT SOVIET-NAZI PACT



WASHINGTON, D. C.— The Soviet-Nazi non-aggression pact which so astounded the world did not surprise Poland—so has said the Polish envoy to the United States, Jerzy Potocki. Potocki continued "We are ready to fight if Germany invades our country." The Polish envoy is shown with Washington newspaper correspondents.

CALIFORNIA CITIZENS CHARGE LAXITY BY CONGRESS IN DEALING WITH STATE'S MIGRANT PROBLEM AT RECENT SESSION

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 31— With 300,000 migrants already in California and more coming daily, Thomas W McManus announced today that he could again take up the cudgels for an effective solution of the problem.

McManus, secretary of the California Citizen's Association. last year drew national attention to the acute situtation and aroused public opinion to the point where congressional action was promised.

"But Congress failed act, and as a rsult we are saddled with social problems that belong the Texas and Oklahoma," he said.

The migration, which thinned to a trickle while the Citizen's Association was active, is now a great westering stream, 20 per cent larger than last summer.

Pointing to the soaring cost of taking care of migrants after they achieve what he called an" artificial citizenship" by living off the Farm Security Administration for one year, McManus declared that Kern county's budget of more than$12,000,000 was twice as much as the 1939-40 budge for the entire state of Arizona..

McManus accused politicians, professional charity workers and bureaucrats with "fumbling and refusing to deal realistically" with the problem.

He branded proposals for colonizing migrants and putting them in self-help cooperatives as "visionary, lazy and desperate attempts to temporize with a vexing problem."

"The fallacy of all these proposals is that they are directed at caring for the migrants at the expense of California taxpayers," he said.

"We all want to see the sick, the old and the blind assisted—and certainly a feeling of sympathy and a desire to help the unfortunate are not the exclusive property of left-wing visionaries—but we cannot do more and we cannot go on doing what we have done in the past without lowering California standards."

McManus complimented the Farm Security Administration for "beginning to respect the California viewpoint." He referred to a radio broadcast last week in Arkansas, Missouri Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, in which the unemployed were urged to stay out of California's already overrun labor market.

McManus said the Citizens' Association would form a closely knit organization in the major agricultural valleys in an effort to save the tax structure from collapse, threatened by the growing tax burden.

RELIEF CHISLER FINDED FOR FALSE CLAIMS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31—One Hollywood actor found that attempts to defraud the state unemployment insurance fund were not profitable.

This is according to a report received here by the Division of Unemployment Compensation from the Hollywood Department of Employment office.

The report said that a conviction had been obtained in court against the actor, on grounds that he had certified over a period of fourteen weeks that he had been without employment, had drawn compensation for that period and actually had been working. He was fined $30, at $5 per month, and ordered to return $153 at the rate of $10 per month.

On the other hand, the Compensation section received a certified check from a Long Beach man for $120 with the notation that the money had been "wrongfully paid" to the claimant.

State Fair Program Takes Form

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31— Commending those who built the California State Fair into the largest 10-day state fair in the nation, Gov. Culbert L. Olson today urged Californians in every part of the state to attend the annual event September 1 through 10.

"This is the year the State Fair will greater than in previous years," Mr. Olson said. "It will afford much in the way of study of our state's development in all lines of progress. Industrial and agricultural entries will be more in number and the task confronting the directors will be greater."

"May I extend a hearty and cordial invitation to all engaged in agriculture, animal husbandry and industry to take part in the 1939 State Fair, making it even more outstanding than before."

To the people of California and the nation, I bid you welcome to Sacramento, the Capitol City of California to enjoy the wonders that will be exhibited at the State Fair."

Low roundtrip fares will be put into effect by Southern Pacific for the California State Fair at Sacramento, September 1 to 10, inclusive, according to R. P. Bick, Truckee agent.

Applying on the company's lines between Reno, Redding, Bakersfield, San Luis Obispo and intermediate points excursion tickets will be sold September 1 to 10 with a three day return limit, Bick said.

CHIEF CATO ORDERS STICKERS OFF AUTOS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31— Removal of obstructing no-transparent stickers on windshields, side wings, side and rear windows of automobiles is to be asked of all motorists by officers of the California Highway Patrol in an effort to eliminate accidents caused by them.

In a bulletin to all patrol officers Chief E. Raymond Cato called attention to the fact that many motorists returning from country-wide tours are endangering the lives of themselves and others by the use of numerous stickers applied by hotels, parks and other places visited.

The California Vehicle Code, he pointed out, only permits the use of stickers in the lower corner of windshields fartherest from the driver's position not to exceed seven inches square.

The placing of stickers on wind wings an other places on the automobile, exceeding the legal limit, reduces visibility to a point where they may cause accidents.

Having more stickers than the law permits is a misdeameanor within the terms of the California Vehicle Code

Henry George Born in Philadelphia

Henry George, born in Philadelphia in 1839, left school at 14 to go to work. He went to California in 1857, became a printer and editor, and became a keen student of the problem of poverty and its relation to land ownership. His solution, in the form of a single tax on land values, is set forth in his book, "Progress and Poverty." He returned to New York in 1880 where he wrote and lectured on political and economic subjects. He was twice candidate for mayor, his second campaign while in ill health being largely responsible for his death in 1897.
